

Website Analytics Update

Cloudflare Traffic Overview — cmcbatch65.com / BO65

Overview

This update reflects the Cloudflare traffic analytics we discussed, now covering five reporting windows: Jun 11 – Jul 11, Jun 25 – Jul 25, Jul 26 – Jul 28 (a short 48-hour snapshot), Jul 29 – Aug 31, and the newest window, Sep 1 – Sep 30. Together these give both a trend view and a current pulse on the site.

As with the previous summary, these figures reflect total web requests — a mix of genuine visitors and routine automated activity (search engine crawlers, uptime checks, and scanning bots) — rather than unique human users. They remain a useful baseline for tracking growth and engagement over time.

Note on the Jul 29 – Aug 31 window: Cloudflare's export only had complete daily data through the 28th of the month it was pulled; per instruction, Jul 29–31 are treated as zero-traffic placeholder days, and the totals below are the exported "last 30 days" figures applied to this date range as given.

Note on the Sep 1 – Sep 30 window (GMT+7): the dashboard's daily chart shows zero requests on Sep 29 and Sep 30, which suggests the export was pulled before those days were complete. The September totals below are therefore likely to cover roughly Sep 1–28 in practice.

Key Statistics

| Metric            | Jun 11 – Jul 11 | Jun 25 – Jul 25 | Jul 26 – Jul 28 | Jul 29 – Aug 31 | Sep 1 – Sep 30 |
|-------------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|----------------|
| Total Requests    | 48.34k          | 57.82k          | 2.67k           | 86.57k          | 78.93k         |
| Total Visits      | 8.30k           | 39.44k          | 1.20k           | 56.12k          | 48.94k         |
| Cache Hit Rate    | 2.27%           | 1.16%           | 1.27%           | 1.38%           | 0.83%          |

September "Countries Reached" is a count of the countries in the September country list (68 entries, of which "Tor" is Cloudflare's label for Tor-network traffic and is not counted as a country).

Traffic by Country

The site continues to draw a broad international audience. The United States, Netherlands, and France were the largest sources of traffic across the first four windows. In September the Netherlands (22.81k) and the United States (21.08k) again lead, but France drops sharply from 13.27k to 1.38k (13th). Belgium (4.04k), the United Kingdom (3.02k), Hong Kong (2.51k), and Israel (1.83k) are new top-10 entrants compared with the Jul 29 – Aug 31 window, while Japan (1.77k, 11th) and Thailand (1.51k, 12th) sit just outside the top 10. South Africa (4 requests) and New Zealand (not in the September list) have fallen away. See the September chart and tables below for the full breakdown.

A note on Thailand traffic

Thailand appeared consistently in the top 5–10 countries for the first three periods (2.28k, 2.14k, and 50 requests respectively). Worth flagging: since both of us manage the site day-to-day from Thailand, some portion of that figure reflected our own visits, testing, and admin activity rather than purely organic outside interest. In the Jul 29 – Aug 31 window Thailand fell to 11th place with 1.22k requests, and in September it recorded 1.51k requests (12th) — still just outside the top 10, which is consistent with that explanation, since it was never a large organic audience to begin with.

Traffic Quality Notes

A recurring share of requests across all periods targets paths that aren't part of the live site — for example /wp-admin/index.php, /wp-login.php, /wpadmin/install.php, /live/.env, /cms/.env, /mail/.env, /server-status.php, and /php.php — along with a large "Unknown/Others" share in the browser and OS breakdowns, and a notable volume from the curl user agent. The Jun 11–Jul 11 data also showed a user agent literally named "TLM-Audit-Scanner/1.0" among the top entries, confirming automated scanning tools are a real and measurable part of this traffic.

The September data shows the same pattern: /wp/, /wp-admin/install.php, /wordpress/, /.env, and /.git/config all appear among the top paths; a WordPress/6.4.3 user agent accounts for 1.1k requests and curl for 701; and several host entries carry non-standard ports (:8443, :8880, :8080). Client errors (4xx) make up 14.41k requests (about 18% of the total). Requests to the alternate address thebatch1965.pages.dev (12.42k) are also visible. Legitimate crawlers are present too — Googlebot (638), Bingbot (444), and Applebot (130). These are typical signatures of bot activity rather than real visitors, and they inflate the raw request counts somewhat. This is common for any public website and isn't cause for concern, but it's worth keeping in mind when interpreting the headline numbers.

Device & Platform Snapshot

| Device Type | Jun 11 – Jul 11 | Jun 25 – Jul 25 | Jul 26 – Jul 28 | Jul 29 – Aug 31 | Sep 1 – Sep 30 |
|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|----------------|
| Desktop     | 40.99k (84.8%)  | 50.92k (88.1%)  | 2.27k (85.0%)   | 81.18k (93.8%)  | 72.89k (92.3%) |
| Mobile      | 7.25k (15.0%)   | 6.83k (11.8%)   | 395 (14.8%)     | 5.00k (5.8%)    | 5.93k (7.5%)   |
| Tablet      | 95 (0.2%)       | 60 (0.1%)       | 4 (0.1%)        | 391 (0.4%)      | 112 (0.1%)     |

- Desktop remains the dominant device type in every period (roughly 85–94% of requests), with mobile a distant second and tablet negligible.
- Chrome and "Unknown/Others" are the leading browser categories in the Jun 11–Jul 11 window; Firefox and Chrome lead Jun 25–Jul 25; Chrome leads the 48-hour snapshot; Firefox and Chrome again lead Jul 29–Aug 31; and in September Chrome (45.82k) and "Unknown/Others" (23.05k) lead, followed by MobileSafari (3.4k).
- Cache hit rate has ranged 0.83%–2.27% across all five periods, consistent with a site serving mostly dynamic or non-cached content. September is the lowest so far at 0.83%.
